

Ten Lessons I Learned on the Way to Jail
Zan Tyler

Introduction: The last thing I was expecting when we started homeschooling was to be threatened with jail by the State Superintendent of Education. Homeschooling is so easy now, legally speaking—could this ever happen again?

1. Freedom isn't _____.

Threats to our freedom:

2. We often find our freedom challenged/threatened when we least expect it.

Sometimes we find ourselves in the biggest trouble when _____

We need to remember that God uses our _____ as _____.

3. I learned to whom my children belong.

Our problems come when others don't know this. Do you know where your rights to homeschool come from and how to protect them?

4. I learned the foundation of all education and learning should be _____.

I learned this from _____ of all places.

What implications does this have for us today?

5. I learned we have enemies—still.

Who are they and what are their goals?

6. Homeschooling is a _____ decision.

We must arrange _____.

7. I learned we must teach our children what freedom is and how to defend it.

Here are some suggestions:

8. Fighting for freedom requires great _____.

9. The Constitution _____.

10. We must _____ together or we will _____.

Conclusion: How do we survive? How do we win the struggle for freedom?
